The Dawn of Brighter Days.

BY A MEMBER OF THE CLAY CLUB, NORWICH, CONN.

TUNE—"Carrier Dove."

There's a name that falls on the patriot's ear,
Wherever his steps may roam,
As sweet as the sound that the exiles hear
When they come to their long lost home;
Though the daring and cunning and treacherous rise,
The sceptre of Office to sway,
Yet the golden days of the great and wise
Rise afresh at the name of our Clay.

Fair Commerce that floats on the wings of the gales,
And plows azure ocean all o'er,
Long riding at anchor, with dead, flapping sails,
Scarce daring to move from the shore,
Her streamers let fly, and her canvass unfurled,
And gallantly moved from the bay,
And wafted her treasures all over the world,
When first the Whigs shouted for Clay.

The loom and the spindle were silent and still,
The anvil and lathe under key,
The waterfall idly rushed on by the mill,
And mixed with the waves of the sea;
But the lathe set to work and the anvil to ring,
And the loom and spindle to play,
And the water began on the buckets to spring,
Quick as thought at the mention of Clay.

The Mechanic sat gloomy, and sighed that his skill
Lay idle without its reward,
And the Merchant scarce opened his money-less till,
For the times were so rugged and hard;
But lo! the Mechanic rolled up his white sleeves,
And set every muscle in play,
And the Merchant turned over his ledger's full leaves
With joy at the mention of Clay.

The Farmer, disheartened, turned over his soil,
And scattered his seed with a tear,
For he knew a small pittance was all that his toil
Must have for its wages a year;
But up sprang the Farmer, as gay as a lord,
And toiled with delight, all the day,
For he found that brown labor would get its reward,
Encouraged and fostered by Clay.

The Shoemaker sat and looked over the past,
And saw how the present went wrong,
And declared he "would never put leather to last,
Or drive pegs again for a song;"
But he caught up his apron to cover his lap,
And cut, stitched and pegged all the day,
And the hammer and lap-stone went clap, clap, clap,
As soon as they shouted for Clay.

The North and the South and the East and the West,
Seemed all, in their ruins to lie,
Though some had their millions to sell to the rest,
The rest had no money to buy,
But they sprang up elated and purchased and sold,
Nor feared they a moment for pay,
For they knew there'd be plenty of silver and gold,
When matters were managed by Clay.

The Trader sat lolling and talked with his clerk,
And wished every day it was through,
He had not the heart to go gaily to work,
Because he had nothing to do;
But lo! in an instant, they throng'd to his shop,
And kept him in motion all day,
As soon as they heard that the Whigs had got up,
To open the White House for Clay.

The Laborer sat and he mused with his wife,
For gloom brooded over his track,
He could not get money enough for his life,
To get a new coat for his back;
But sunshine broke forth and he labored with glee,
And piled up his cash every day,
And bought a new suit to go over and see
The Inauguration of Clay.

The Tailor sat musing, nor cared he a shad,
If the coat were made snugly or loose,
For the times had gone lately so weary and bad,
(And here he called Martin a goose,)
But he kicked o'er his goose, and he leaped with delight,
And he stowed his old cabbage away,
And he cut, sewed and stitched it from morning till night,
When he heard the Whigs shouting for Clay.

The Locos were laughing that times went so bad,
From hill top and valley and shore,
For e'en though the Poor were not rich as a lord,
They knew that the Rich would be Poor;
But when the Whigs shouted, they started in flocks,
And came near to fainting away,
For they knew 'twould be fatal to Martin the fox,
But glory and triumph to Clay.

You Can't go the Caper, Matty! no how.

TUNE—"The Young Oysterman."

Our Sucker pole is planted, our flag is now unfurled,
For Clay we go undaunted, and proclaim it to the world:
Ye slanderers of Whiggery, lay down your pen and paper!
For little Matty's race is run, he cannot go the caper.
Oh! you can't go the caper, Matty, no how!

Ye Whigs, who fought the noble fight, for Tip and Tyler too,
Remember that we've met to night to organize anew;
And, by the blessings of that power, which smiled on those of yore,
We'd lay the traitor on his back, and Matty on the floor!
Oh! you can't go the caper, Matty, no how!

Yes! let it be the watchword from Maine to Georgia's end,
Organize! organize! and be the people's friend!
And show that our principles are just as pure as then,
And that we go for principles and never more for men!
Oh! you can't go the caper, Matty, no how!

What have we to fear from Martin Van, Dick Johnson, or Calhoun,
So long as Harry is our man, backed by that same old coon,
We'll send the one to Kinderhook, the other up Salt River,
And make the rank and file to look, as tho' they had the ager.
Oh! you can't go the caper, Matty, no how!

What a jolly time the outs will have in Eighteen Fourty Four,
Martin Van a eatin' sour crout, Calhoun rye and Indian flour,
Dick Johnson walk de lubly lawn, wid damsel blushing blue,
And Tyler—oh! John Tyler—with his vegetating crew.
Oh! you can't go the caper, Matty, no how!

Come then, my lively lads, and take the noble stand,
In favor of the patriot, the bravest of the land,
The Mill Boy of the Slashes, who dares our rights maintain,
And never will submit to a selfish traitor's reign!
Oh! you can't go the caper, Matty, no how!

Written for the Raleigh Register.

KATE GRAHAM.

A TALE OF LOVE AND POLITICS.

In the Autumn of 1843, business called me through the western part of North Carolina, it was in that portion of the year when the chemistry of nature lends to the mountain foliage its variegated hues, which, though beautiful to look upon, remind one that leaves and flowers are not the only things that wither and die. The eye may rest with pleasure or rather with interest, upon these scenes; but the melancholy conviction comes to the heart, that such is death.

To the high-wrought and intellectual mind, these scenes are especially dear, and they offer to all, no matter what their station in life, an ample field for reflection.—Here the father can point out the sturdy oaks—such are my sons! strong in health and youth, and the woodbines which have entwined themselves around them, are the type of my daughter's affection. Here too the lover and the maid can find the evergreen which has withstood the storms and changes of seasons, but true to her nature, she presents the same congenial color on which the eye most loves to rest. Her language is fidelity! and her lesson to the young is, "but true to each other and let thy affections be as unchangeable as my garb, and the storms of life will pass thee, while thy breasts shall rejoice in beatitude."

The weeping willow, too, speaks comfort to the widowed heart, and when placed near her child's grave; it collects the tears of Heaven and sprinkles them over the green sod, that covers all she held dear on earth. It says to the insolated heart—"Kiss the rod that is held out to thee, and live with the assurance that if the Deity permitted the casket to wither on earth, he has taken the gem to its home of lasting rest."

Mountain scenery always impresses one with the belief that he is holding communion with some being, who is tuned to breathe the responsive tones to the vibrations of his own heart.

A few large drops of rain awoke me from my reverie; come, Cato! said I, we must press on, or we shall get a wet jacket for our musings. Cato was a fine horse, and one that could enjoy a rural repast [illegible] good taste and judgement, for frequently he would slacken his pace into a walk, in passing some beautiful shrub, in order to give me an opportunity to examine it.—Whether it was because I had stopped him so often for that purpose, and he had learned my taste, I know not, probably it was so.

Cato cast his eyes towards the clouds which threaten'd a plentitude of water, and dashed off at a rapid rate. We had travelled about two miles, when we came in sight of an old log cabin, which had been deserted by the owner, apparently for several years.

The rain had now commenced falling very rapidly, and in large drops, which indicate an accompanying gust of wind.—We halted at the cabin, and found it tenanted by a fellow traveller, who had his horse inside.—"Come in, stranger and lead your horse in," said he, "there's plenty of room here for all of us, and you will keep your horse and saddle dry."—I led Cato in who immediately commenced a biting acquaintance with the other horse. After tying them apart, he remarked, "that as there was no one there to introduce him, he should introduce himself." "I am known in this part of the country as Col. Morton, and at my residence which is a few miles hence, I invite you spend to night, and longer if you choose, and in return, you will please give me your name and place of residence?"

"At present, sir, I am a citizen of the world; I hail, however, from Old Pennsylvania." Well friend I hope you will not think me impudent—but I should like to know exceedingly well about your politics, but I promise you in the meantime, whatever they are it shall make no difference with your reception at my house."

"My name is Morton, and I am a whig from principle."

"Good," said he; "give me your hand I fight in the same ranks too, and I am doubly happy to find you on the right side."

After a few moments of conversation on different topics, he proposed lighting a fire and we set about collecting wood and old bark from the logs.

All the while, the storm had raged with violence, the wind had risen and blew in fitful gusts, which threatened to demolish our shelter.

The Col. had struck a light, and succeeded in lighting a fire, the cheerful blaze, and the dreariness of the evening impressed us with a brotherly convivial feeling.

"Come Captain!" said he, "take a seat upon this log, and let us hold some sort of a confab; it is dull and dreary enough, but as soon as the rain ceases, I think I can offer you more comfortable quarters than this old cabin. My wife will have everything in readiness for a warm supper, and, sir, you shall be introduced to one of the most amiable, and at the same time one of the best Whigs that you ever met with. It is somewhat rare to meet with a feminine politician, who thoroughly understands the principles of our government: but Kate, she is of the Graham stock, and connected with a distinguished gentleman of that name, who will probably be our next Governor. The whole family are good Whigs, and so steadfast is Kate, that I would as soon expect her to violate her marriage vow, as to yield one point of what she conceives to be the true principles of our form of Government.

"Well!" said I, you must live most happily with your wife, as her views are consonant with your own." "Yes," said he "and that is the best part of the joke, I was a democrat before I was married. I saw Kate, and loved her. Well I proposed in due time. Kate listened to what I had to say—her countenance immediately changed, and this was the first time I had ever seen her look sad. You can scarcely imagine my feelings, I as much expected to have a decided refusal as I expect to see her to night; however, she told me candidly that she could not accept the honor that I wished to confer upon her, under existing circumstances. "You know," said she, "that my family are all Whigs; I believe them to be as noble and as high-minded in their nature, and in actions too as any other. Now, whatever the whisperings of my heart may be, my duty to my family, and my better judgment tells me, that I should not bring a husband into my family, whose political views are not in unison with theirs."

"Now Marion, this was a stumper.—What the d——l to do I did not know.—There was one thing certain, that I had to do, change her politics, or my own, and and I will acknowledge the fact, that I felt inadequate to the task. The fact was this, I had never paid much attention to politics. The popular side was the one I had chosen, without giving a thought to the propriety of their views. I believed that the mass were democrats, and the term sounds so sweet, that many worthy men find themselves in their ranks, without appealing to their own judgment.—Well, I proposed to discuss the subject with Kate, and this was the understanding, that the one who was honestly convicted would yield the point. A time was set, and we met. I had studied hard and prepared to present the strongest arguments; as I thought, but they fell to the ground before her superior mind.

When I entered the house Kate met me at the door; said she, "Colonel, we meet in friendship, and whatever may be the result of this very novel meeting I hope we shall still cherish that feeling. Come in and be seated." Our conversation had wandered over several different subjects, when I reminded Kate of the object of my visit. "I suppose," said she, "since you have thrown down the glove, I must take it up, although I regret it exceedingly. Friends should never discuss politics. Now take your premises, said she laughing, and give me the privilege of refuting." [illegible] bly. "In the first place," said I, "I am opposed to a Tariff, to a U. States Bank, and to all other Banks, and to internal Improvements; also I am in favor of Free Trade, universal suffrage, and am a friend to the poor man. "Oh yes!" said she, "you are precisely where I expected to find you. If you were a candidate for office, Colonel, I should think the word, demagogue was a very proper one in your vocabulary. But go on." "Firstly, then, I see no reason why we of the South should be taxed to support the Northern Manufacturer; if we can buy goods of England cheaper than we can of the North, why not sell our cotton directly there and take her manufactured articles in exchange."

Said she, "Colonel, you have taken a look upon only one side of the picture; it is true that we are taxed to support the manufacturers, but how? We purchase their manufactured articles at a higher price than the same article costs in England, but still it is to our advantage that we should do so. Four millions of the population of the U. S., are mechanics; they of course do not produce what they consume; they are dependent upon the Farmer and Planter. Now let us fancy that there is no tariff, and the ports are open free to foreign commerce, the result would be; to reduce the price of mechanical labor to about fifty cents per day, and they find themselves, they would have to work as cheap as the laborers of England; they then could not pay the same price for articles of consumption. Hence produce would fall in proportion; the farmer would get less prices than he does now, and, not only that, but the manufacturers would close their shops and turn their attention, and become competitors in agricultural pursuits. Therefore we should increase the producers, and diminish the consumers and consequently have to look to foreign market for outlet for the surplus produce. England and France, and all powers have a Tariff, which we must pay, for the privilege of selling the products of our country. Now, to open our ports free would be madness; it would be paying a premium for the privilege of exporting. But the evil would not stop here. The support of the General Government would be cut off and then would follow a direct tax, a thing a Republican Government should avoid as long as possible.

We will pursue the subject a little further. Where does this Tariff Tax fall? upon the poor man who wears homespun and has no imported luxuries in his cabin? No, it falls upon the rich man who sips champaigne, and dresses his wife and daughters in imported silks; if there was no tariff, the rich could have their luxuries at a much cheaper cost, and when the Tax collector came, there would be added four dollars for the support of the General Government, a tax which is now collected not of the wants of the people, but from their tastes and love for Foreign finery."

"Well Colonel, what did you say to that?"

"What could I say?—she had argued both sides of the question—but it has now stopped raining, and we will mount and ride home."

We led our horses out adjusted the saddles, the Colonel mounted and commenced the old ballad:

"The sun she's gone down behind the blue mountains,
And left the dark night to come on us again;
While we ride o'er the hillock, cross the dell and the fountain
To greet my sweet Kate, that lives on the plain."

"Well," said I, "what were Miss Grahams opinion of the bank?"

"Why she said that the extent of our country required a bank, to make the exchanges, and an incorporated institution would be safer than individual credit, or individual bills of exchange, that the idea of transmitting the precious metals, was preposterous, the exchange would have to be made on the good faith of something; and she knew of nothing safer than the government; and what was still worse my last hobby, she really made me ashamed of. The working man's friend! said she with a roguish look, "Oh no, the only friends the working men have, are those who employ and pay them; they want no other friends, they are superior to them who affect unbounded zeal for their interest, but take care to do very little work themselves, it is easier to be a working man's friend than to be a working man yourself."

"I suppose you were converted then."

"Worse than that, I was humbled, sir. To think that Colonel Morton should be routed horse foot and dragoons, by a woman politician, was more than I could bear. I took leave promising to call in a few days, which I did, and offered her the hand of a good Whig, which she accepted with this requirement, that I should vote for General Harrison; and the very day that I voted for the lamented "Statesman and Hero," Kate Graham became Mrs. Morton, and I have never had occasion to regret my change of politics. We have one child—Henry Clay is the name that his mother gave him, and he is a very promising boy.

We had now arrived at his residence, and the boy came and took our horses.—We walked up to the house, and and as we entered, we heard the sweet tones of a Piano.

"Listen," said the Colonel, "She is playing one of her Whig songs." I listened and the following words were sung sweetly by Mrs. Morton, which were her own composition, and arranged to the old Scotch air "Over the river to Charlie:"

Then rally all in '44, go forth and fight your battle,
And make the Clay Cabins ring, and the 'coon skins rattle;
Come one, come all, from cabin and hall, cross o'er the hills and marshes,
And turn your coats, deposite your votes, for Harry of the Slashes.

The music ceased and we entred I was introduced. As the Colonel had anticipa- [illegible] down to it. "Kate," said the Colonel, can you tell this gentlemen's politics?" "I think said Kate laughing, that he is a Locofoco." "No madam," replied I, "appearances I acknowledge are against me but I thank Heaven I am not quite so bad as that yet." The supper was finished, and we spent a most agreeable evening. On the following morning, I took leave and pursued my journey. What a pity it is thought I, that the Ladies generally, are not as well informed of the politics of the country, their influence, properly exerted, would do more good than all the stump speeches ever made.

FOREIGN.

The following address from the Hon. and learned gentleman has appeared in the Freeman's Journal:

To the People of Ireland—Fellow Countrymen: Once again I return you my most heartfelt thanks for the peace, quiet and good order you have observed, and I conjure you by the country we all love, and in the name of the God we all adore, to continue in the same peace, quietness and perfect tranquility.

I tell you solemnly that your enemies, and the enemies of Ireland, are very desirous that there should be a breaking out of tumult, riot, or other outrage. Be you, therefore, perfectly peaceable. Attack nobody. Injure no person. If you respect your friends—if you wish to gall your enemies—keep the peace, and let not one single act of violence be committed.

You are aware the jury have found a verdict against me; but depend upon it, that I will bring a writ of error, and will not acquiesce in the law, as laid down against me, until I have the opinion of the twelve judges in Ireland, and, if necessary, of the House of Lords. Be you, therefore, perfectly quiet. Do no violence whatsoever. You could not possibly offend or grieve me half so much as by any species of riot, assault or outrage.

It is said that the great question of Repeal has been injured by this verdict. Do not believe it. It is not true. On the contrary, the result of this verdict will be of the most material service to the Repeal, if the people continue to be as peaceable as they have hitherto been, and as I am sure they will continue to be.

Obey my voice. No riot. No tumult. No blow. No violence. Keep the peace for six months, or at utmost twelve months longer, and you shall have the Parliament in College Green again. I am, fellow countrymen, your affectionate and devoted servant,

DANIEL O'CONNELL.

MERRION SQUARE, Feb. 11, 1844.

On Saturday night great excitement prevailed throughout Dublin, and dense masses of people of the lowest order were congregated in the streets in the immediate neighborhood of the courts, around which a crowd had stationed itself, apparently with a determination to stay out the whole night. Beyond the terrific yell outside the court which greeted the first announcement of the verdict, there was no manifestation of any riot or disturbance; on the contrary, taking the occasion into consideration, there was a remarkable silence up to between two and three o'clock, by which time all was perfectly tranquil. Large bodies of mounted and foot police continued to patrol the streets during the whole night. The troops in garrison were under arms in case their services should be required, but the civil force was found to be perfectly adequate to preserve the peace.

IS IT TRUE?—The New York Correspondent of the Louisville Journal, details certain "iniquitous practices," in that city, which are as discreditable as they are astounding! And these practices are indulged in under the cloak of wealth and respectability! If this is a specimen of "high life," in New York, it is no wonder the city is overrun with houses of ill-fame, abandoned women, and that crimes of a revolting character are of daily and nightly occurrence:

"Some time ago I spoke to you of certain iniquitous practices in high life, which involved the reputation of some of our most assuming and aristocratic men and women. I learn that, shortly, the veil is to be raised to a system of vice so utterly and artfully corrupt and depraved as almost to defy belief. It would seem that we have, in the fashionable vicinity of Broadway, several extra magnificent and gorgeous ladies' club-houses, where are celebrated all the infamous mummeries and rites of male seduction, gambling, and prostitution, on a scale worthy the invention of an Arbaces. Under pretext of masquerade balls, ladies' bowling and oyster saloons, billiard-rooms, gymnasia, &c., &c., the victims—generally clerks to wealthy monied houses, or officers in financial institutions—are enveighed to enter, where they are met and entertained by elegant and splendidly accomplished women, flaunting in all the fascinations and accomplishments of fashion, who soon teach them to forget first their senses in the intoxicating bowl—next the honor of their wives and families in the embraces of illicit love, and finally their golden integrity, in the fatal and murderous snares of the gaming table.

Here are, in fact, the nurseries of those astounding infidelities in social life, and those startling defalcations in business, which have made our city so infamously notorious. Here the hideous skeleton of vice is clothed in such dazzling and enchanting robes, that the wretched victim—thinking the while he treads on roses—dreams not of his doom, until the inevitable abyss yawns wide beneath his feet. Then, broken hearts, desolate hearths, dishonored faith—despair, robbery, theft, suicide—eke out the miserable tale, and the flower-hung sepulchre opens [illegible] other victim. This is no fancy sketch, as I have good reason to believe; and I am informed that judicial investigations will shortly lay bare these horrible scenes in all their naked deformity."

The Hon. Mr. Gardner, a member of the Massachusetts Senate, from Bristol, ought to be made an honorary member of the French Institute, and probably will, as soon as his great historical knowledge comes to be known. The Hon. Senator took occasion a few days since to oppose a railroad bill, and in the course of his argument against it, he remarked, "History informs us that Napoleon Buonaparte wished to take some private property for the purpose of erecting a mansion for his son Louis Philippe. (The laughter here prevented the remainder of the sentence from being distinctly heard.) The Senator from Hampshire, Mr. Lawrence, immediately rose and returned thanks for the information Mr. Gardner had communicated to the Senate.

NULLIFICATION NULLIFIED.—The following passage in the late address of Mr. Calhoun to his political friends and supporters, whilst it must surprise them not a little, cannot but be hailed by the fast friends of the Constitution as a signal triumph of truth and reason over the heresy of Nullification:

"That which they have urged with the greatest confidence is, that each State has a right to appoint Delegates as she pleases. I meet it by utterly denying that there is any such right. That each State has a right to act as it pleases, in whatever relates to itself exclusively, no one will deny; but it is a perfectly novel doctrine that any State has any such a right when she comes to act in concert with others in reference to what concerns the whole. In such cases it is the plainest dictate of common sense that whatever affects the whole should be regulated by the mutual consent of all, and not by the discretion of each."

BABE, THE PIRATE.—This man exhibits the utmost indifference about his approaching fate. A well known character, noted for his pugilistic prowess, visited Babe's cell the other day, when the following conversation occurred:

Visitor.—Well Babe you haven't long to live.

Babe.—No; but I know more than most people, for I know exactly how long I have to live.

Visitor.—I say, Babe I'm going to have a party of friends to sup with me on the night of the day you're to be hung, and as we've none of us any notion what sort of a place h——is, we want you to come back that night and tell us at the supper table.

Babe.—Agreed. I'll be there if possible.

Such is the substance of the dialogue which actually took place on the occasion referred to, and we are informed that Babe had the invitation thus impiously proferred and accepted, chalked upon one of the walls of his cell!

P. S. Since the above was written a respite for Babe has arrived.—[N. Y. True Sun.

Gen. PETER B. PORTER, the brother-in-law of Mr. Clay and Secretary of War under J. Q. Adams, long an influential and leading Statesman, died at his residence, Niagara Falls, on the 20th ult., in the 71st year of his age.

For the Whig.

TO SOLITUDE.

O, Solitude, in thy lone bowers,
We spend some sad yet soothing hours,
For when the heart's oppressed with grief;
'Tis in thy shades we find relief.
When joys are fled and spirits gone,
We love to feel we are alone;
And as the tears abundant flow,
We lesson, and not increase, our woe.
So, like the tempests, when 'tis o'er,
The clouds are brighter than before;
The rain, like our refreshing tears,
The past relieves, the future cheers;
The sun illumes the darken'd sky,
And smiles succeed the tear and sigh.

LATEST FROM TEXAS.—The Steamship Neptune, arrived at New Orleans, from Galveston on the 19th inst. Times were better in that city (Galveston) when she left, than they ever had been before. An armistice, it is thought by the Texas papers, has been established with Mexico; the Commissioners were daily expected to return.—286 German emigrants, chiefly farmers arrived at Galveston a few days since—others are daily expected. Col. Snively has, after a diligent search for a silver mine, to which he was directed by a Spanish prisoner, found it in the bed of a small stream called the Leona. There have been several outrages among the negroes upon two or three of the plantations on the Brazos within the last month an overseer on the plantation of Mr. Burditt, was killed.

All that is said about annexation is contained in the annexed from the Galveston News:

We believe, should the project of annexation not be consummated soon, we shall be inclined to play the part of some others and say Texas don't want annexation no how—and didn't from the first.

THE EXPLOSION of the "Peacemaker" has been attributed to various cause. At first, it was thought the charge was too large; it is now said to have been caused by the charge being too small. The full charge of the piece is stated to have been 30 pounds, but only 25 pounds were used for the fatal charge. The chamber of the gun was a frustum of a cone—that is, a cone with the point cut off. The narrow end received the powder, and if the quantity was not sufficient to fill the cavity up to the place where the ball was stopped by the conveying sides of the chamber, a vacant place would be left between the powder and the shot. The unavoidable result would be explosion. The chamber of the gun was exactly like that of one of those pocket-pistols, the barrel of which is screwed to the breech.

A lady—every female is a lady now-a-days—applied at the Alms House yesterday for a load of wood.

"We can give you only half a load," replied the Commissioner.

"Half a load!" exclaimed she in a huff; "it wouldn't look respectable to have half a load of wood dumped down before a house."

This feeling actuates Van Buren also—his friends insist he was only half beaten in 1840, and so for the respectability of the thing he wants a whole load of defeat.

A VOTE BY ACCIDENT.—The Calais Mo. Journal tells the following:—

"The town of C. is Loco Foco to the back bone. On counting the votes at a recent election. the presiding officer was greatly astonished to find a Whig vote.—With a great deal of gravity he took it between his fingers, and holding it up to the audience, sung out with a stentorian voice, "Who threw this vote?" No answer. "Who threw this Whig vote?—This vote is evidently here by accident, gentlemen!" and upon this he very unceremoniously threw it down upon the floor uncounted."

To print or not to print—that's the question;
Whether subscribers yielding naught
From year to year, should be allow'd to stand
In hope of pay, to-morrow and to-morrow —
Or whether 'tis better with one bold dash
Of the dark trailing pen to cut them off,
And put an end to all expenses
For paper, labor, ink, and brains,
Year after year, free gratis and for naught?
Ah! this doth give us pause,
And makes us rather bear the ills we have,
Than fly to others that we know not of—
The law's delay, the plaintiff's liability for cost,
The stern unwillingness to pay the Printer—
Made sterner by the 'Squires and Constable!
The times do make delinquents of us all,
And especially to blunt the senses
And sharpness of a Printer's bill:—
Always deemed a dull and painful bore

Wayne County Herald.

OHIO WHIG CONVENTION—NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR.—The editor of the Cincinnati Gazette was at Columbus, as a delegate to the convention, on the 22nd, and writes home in the following strain:

As I predicted last evening, we have had another glorious day, and a most enthusiastic assembly of noble hearted Whigs.—Governor Corwin presided, assisted by 21 Vice Presidents, among whom was our fellow-citizen Judge Torrence. A committee of 7 from each Congressional District was appointed to nominate a candidate for Governer, and on the third ballot, MORDECAI BARTLEY of Richland county, received the nomination. The result was reported to the Convention, and was confirmed by that body unanimously with acclamation. A committee was appointed to advise him of the nomination, who returned into convention with him. He accepted the honor conferred upon him, in a short and pertinent speech, which was well received. Mr. Bartley is an honest man. He went into public life in 1823 as a member of Congress from the Richland District, and continued for years to represent that district creditably to the State and to himself. There is no doubt expressed or felt on the subject of carrying the State for Clay. Every body feels and says, that we must succeed by a very large majority.

In great haste, Yours.

It is a fact worthy of notice that most of the able and respectable Locofoco papers, although opposed to Mr. Clay's election, speak of him with the highest respect, while all the miserable stupid little editors assail him with the malignity of vipers. There are some lines of Dr. Holmes, that apply very well to such creatures:

"The feeble sea-birds, blinded in the storms,
On some tall light-house dash their little forms;
And the rude granite scatters for their pains
Those small deposits which were meant for brains
Yet the proud fabric in the morning sun
Stands all unconscious of the mischief done;
Still the red beacon pours its evening rays
For the lost pilot with as broad a blaze,
Nay, shines all radiance o'er the scattered fleet
Of gulls and boobies, brainless at his feet."

The undersigned, publishers of the Quincy Whig, a newspaper printed and published weekly in the city of Quincy, county of Adams, State of Illinois, do certify, that the foregoing list of Lands and Town Lots was published in said paper, bearing date April 17, 1844, and that the number of copies correspond with the number of papers issued for that week.

BARTLETT & SULLIVAN.

April 17, 1844.

For the Whig

MR. EDITOR:—The following Stanzas have been sent to me from Macomb, and if you agree with me, they are well worth publishing in your valuable paper. I suppose the writer has been induced to send this effusion, from the fact that some of our old and pledged friends, are so wedded to the 'critter,' that they have started an anti temperance travelling society, and now in their journeys about the State, they carry pocket pistols, and if reports are to be believed, their example and influence is illy calculated to advance the good cause of Temperance. The lines which follow are the production of an old disciple of the Bar, and well deserves the sincere consideration of our travelling and home bound friends.

TEMPERANCE.

A Veteran Toper's Soliloquy, Remonstrance, and Resolution, perpetrated at the Bar.

Reported for the Macomb Washingtonian Association.

1.

Gill after Gill
To get my fill—
O Bacchus! What-a-Sot-am-I—
Aye, more than 'tight'
From morn till night—
Drunk, as a Pot-ta-wat-amy.

2.

Eh,—What?—compare,—
Will any dare—
An Indian, or a-Squaw-to-me?
Be it Mohawk
Or Fox, or Sauk—
It matters, not a-straw-to-me.

3.

Ugh! What a pain:
Now comes the train—
Purge, Blister, Cup,—Phlebot-o-my;
Soon,—from this face—
To be "a case"—
'Tic?' 'Tremens,'—or 'Lithot-o-my?'

4.

By Doctors skill
I yet may fill
Some office;—made a,—what-o' me?
Zooks,—subject great
To il. lus. trate!
The science of A-nat o my.

5.

Delightful dose
To joys and woes;—
Consent been had? No:—not-o'-me;
The truth confest,
More like to test
Their skill in Trach-e-ot-o-my.

6.

I well may say
'The Devil's to pay'—
Nor, but "the bowl" take aught-o'-me;
Be off! Avaunt!
Ye Spectres gaunt,—
Ye ne'er shall have what'sought-o'-me.

7.

Nay, not a word—
Ye imps abhor'd,
Come not within car-shot-o'-me;
I scorn your smiles,
Detest your wiles—
A sober second thought-o'-me.

8.

Ye Sons of Sport
Who here resort,
To nurse the vice ye-caught-o'-me;
Stop short! return,
That poison spurn—
Consider, what-ye-wot-o'-me.

9.

Wife, children, friends,
In earnest phrase besought-o'-me,
With steady nerve
Again to serve,
And smiled to those who bought-o'-me.

10.

Once high in health,
And blest with wealth:
By friends caress'd: Now, what-o'-me?
How sad the fall!
Esteemed by all,
Poor—as a Pot-ta-wat-a-my.

11.

Alack, thrice poor:
In worldly store,
In flesh, in friends: more, wot-o'-me!
Once,—fair in fame,
A sullied name,
Clings, like the falcon's claw-to-me.

12.

From day to day
Ye tope away,
Without reproof; yea, taught-o'-me;
Spend, in your prime—
Your precious time
Worse, than a Potta-wa-tamy.

13.

Ye learnt to flout
To scoff and scout,
In passion high and hot, o'-me;
To heat your ire
With liquid fire,
Until ye brawl'd and fought-o'-me.

14.

Forewarned in time,
Forego such crime—
Or now, henceforth, claim nought-o'-me;
Lest it be said
'To purchase bread
He begged, and got-a-groat-o'me.'

15.

Slaves to the Fiend,
List! to your friend:
Ye took the cup, woe-fraught-o'-me;
Dread privilege!
Take now "the Pledge"
In Faith, and hope high-wrought-o'-me.

16.

Grant me to know,
If it were so—
Your greatest bane, ye-caught-o'-me;
Roused to its shame,
Ye ask—ye claim
The antidote, as taught-o'-me.

17.

That bane, accurst—
All-conq'ring Thirst,
Aye, stronger than the-Law-to-me;
More foul—more fell—
More terrible,
Than Hell's wide-opening-maw-to-me.

18.

'Bolus' and 'Gill,'
'Gin-sling' and 'Pill'—
I know not what-they-thought-o'me;
But this I think
With that last drink,
They'll pocket all they-ought-o'-me.

19.

It shall be so—
Come weal, come woe,
Come, scenes to shock and awe,-to-me;
Resolve,—thus said,
The promise made
Stands registered—a-law-to-me.

20.

Yes: let them say
What'er they may,
Dolt, Idiot, Fool—what-not-o'-me;
I'll sign the Pledge
And thus allege,
No pow'r, to make a-Sot-o'-me.

21.

Leave them to think
And count their chink,
And 'reckon' what-they-got-o'-me.
I'll then be Free—
At least, I'll be
A sober—Pot-ta-wat-a-my.

SIX K's, "all standing in a row, are understood to indicate that Kinderhook, Kass, Kalhoun, Kan't Kwite Kom'it—two more make out Klay Kan!

MR. CALHOUN arrived in Washington on the 20th ult. It is stated by those who are in his confidence, that he will resign the office, so soon as the Oregon and Texas questions are arranged.

For the Whig

MR. EDITOR:—I believe in ancient times it was customary, when the nobles died, or visited their cotemporary Lords, or any foreign friends, that the editors were informed by the earliest mail, or private conveyance or express, and authorized thereby, to publish it without delay, and in that way it would be propagated thro'-out the length and breadth of the land; and a failure in so doing, was considered by the Royal Family or Nobles, (as the case may be,) contemptuous treatment, and liable to be exposed as aristocrats, or not friends of his his royal majesty.

But we of modern ages, while all is Reform, Steam, Wind, Washingtonians, Marriages, and for Harry of the West, have learned a more expeditious, though not commendable way of informing our friends and acquaintances, of our progress in marriages, by sneaking into the office in disguise, and handing out papers purporting to give the information of the marriages of Mr. A——, of ——, to Miss B——, of ——, by the Rev. —— of ——, etc., when it is all a hoax, or familiarly speaking, a palpable lie. In this way, the writer of this has been drawn into the bands of hymen, though fictitiously, and to the belief no doubt, of a number of our Whig Sucker gals to be real, and to the sorrow of the one so situated. For in this sport, it causes the gals who believe the report to forsake her lover, if he is the one, and turn to some other, and all his winning and sophistical ways, will not probably entice her to reform, or return to the bosom of her previous lover.

Who is there to sympathize? who is there to annoint? who is their to pour out the oil of consolation to the one so situated?

I will not admonish in this communication, the one who previously acted in this. But when Miss ———, and I do join in reality, I will inform you in a better and more authoritative mood, than by the small, dark complected young Somito.

S. A.

Recently in the Maine Legislature some members of the Locofoco party made some partizan reference to the unfortunate duel in which Mr. Graves and Mr. Cilley were concerned. Mr. Perkins, of Augusta, made a reply, a sketch of which is published in the Portland Advertiser. Mr. Perkins, in his speech, made the following statement:

"'He (Cilley) is confident of success, and if he is successful, it will give him such a standing in Congress, as no other New England man ever enjoyed.'

"The letter was placed in my hand and I read the words. A postcript said;

"'The corpse of Mr. Cilley has just been brought in.'

"This was the language of that letter, and I challenge contradiction. That letter has been called for, but has never made its appearance. I think I have given the language verbatim. I do not intend to charge Mr. Williams with favoring that duel. I do not believe he favored it, but I do believe that he had as much control over it as any other person, aside from the immediate parties."

MR. CLAY—Naturalized Citizens.—The enemies of Mr. Clay takes great pains to excite the hostility of our adopted citizens against him. The following sentiments avowed in the Senate of the Union, February 3d, 1832 with no motive but to utter the opinion and feelings by which he has always been governed, are of much more value than the "public opinion" that is made for special occasions:

"The honest, patient, and industrious German readily unites with our people, establishes himself on some of our flat lands, fills his capacious barn, and enjoys in tranquility the abundant fruits which diligence gather around him, always ready to fly to the standard of his adopted country or its laws, when called by the duties of patriotism. The gay, the versatile, the philosophic Frenchman, accommodating himself cheerfully to all the vicissitudes of life, incorporates himself without difficulty in our society. But of all foreigners, none amalgamate themselves so quickly with our people as the natives of the Emerald Isle. In some of the visions which have passed through my imagination, I have supposed that Ireland was originally part and parcel of this continent; and that by some extraordinary convulsion of nature, was torn from America, and, drifting across the ocean, it was placed in the unfortunate vicinity of Great Britain. The same open heartedness, the same generous hospitality, the same careless and uncalculating indifference about human life, characterizes the inhabitants of both countries. Kentucky has been sometimes called the Ireland of America. I have no doubt that if the current of emigration were reversed and set from America upon the shores of Europe, instead of being from Europe to America, every American emigrant to Ireland would there find, as every Irish emigrant here finds, a hearty welcome and a happy home."

CINCINNATI CHARTER ELECTION.—The Cincinnati Chronicle, of Wednesday evening, thus speaks concerning the late charter election in that city:

The average Whig majority on township trustees is something like three thousand five hundred.

The council politically, stands 21 Whigs to 6 Democrats.

The Liberty men nominated a ticket for councilmen in the 6th and 7th wards, and called loudly for a demonstration. In the 6th ward they polled twenty votes, which may be regarded as a beginning for the campaign.

The Locofocos had regularly nominated candidates in every ward but the first, where they voted an independant ticket.

In the fifth ward they made considerable display, and fired, we believe, a volley of resolutions. The average Whig majority there was 60.

PRESSED HAY.—Our farmers could make some money by Timothy hay, properly pressed, and sent to market. There is a good demand for it at New Orleans and St. Louis, at from $12 to $15 a ton. The hay should be cured well and pressed into suitable bales. It then can be carried to the river upon the rail road without great expense.

We anticipate that when the prices of transportation are fixed, the cost of transporting such articles as Hay Hemp &c., will not be as great in proportion to the weight as less bulky and more valuable articles.—[Sangamo Jaunal.

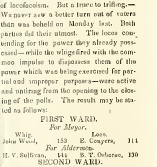
WHIG TRIUMPH!

A Whig Mayor and Two out of the Three Aldermen!



It is with inexpressible pleasure that we again present the 'Coon this week—as it is a harbinger that another most signal victory has been obtained for the Whigs. On Monday last, "the same old 'Coon," had the pleasure of pulling the feathers out of the locofoco rooster, as he is represented in the above cut—and it will probably be a long time before we shall hear any crowing from the draggled fowl of locofocoism. But a truce to trifling.—We never saw a better turn out of voters than was beheld on Monday last. Both parties did their utmost. The locos contending for the power they already possessed—while the whigs fired with the common impulse to dispossess them of the power which was being exercised for partial and improper purposes—were active and untiring from the opening to the closing of the polls. The result may be stated as follows:

FIRST WARD.

For Mayor.

Whig.		Loco.
John Wood,	153	E. Conyers,	111

For Aldermen.

H. V. Sullivan,	144	B. T. Osborne,	130

SECOND WARD.

For Mayor.

John Wood,	132	E. Conyers,	134

For Aldermen.

F. W. Jansen,	131	J. R. Holton,	131

THIRD WARD.

For Mayor.

John Wood,	168	R. Conyers,	92

For Aldermen.

G B. Dimock,	171	J. H. Luce,	86

RECAPITULATION.

Wood's vote in the three wards,	453
Conyer's " " " "	340
Wood's majority,	113

Sullivan's majority in the First Ward over Osborne, is 14.

Holton's majority over Jansen in the Second Ward, is 3.

Dimock's majority over Luce in the Third Ward, is 88.

The whole number of votes polled in the city is 793, nearly two hundred and fifty more votes than were ever before polled in a charter election.

There are some reflections which arise upon this result, which perhaps should here have a place. While we were pleased with the general quietness and peace that prevailed in the election, and the absence of all wrangling and quarrelling, which may without doubt be ascribed to the good effects of the Washingtonian organization; and while we feel bound to say that the election was conducted with the utmost fairness on the part of a major portion of our opponents—we are compelled to say that this was not the case with them all.

Major Holton, it will be seen from the above, gains his election by three votes only—and while we believe this was accomplished by fraud, and that Jansen has actually a majority of the legal votes,—we take the opportunity of saying, that we never before saw so earnest a desire to gain an office on the part of a candidate, as was manifested by Major Holton. He seemed to have thrown off all shame, with a determination to win the pitiful, paltry office of Alderman, at a sacrifice of all those nice feelings of honor and delicacy, which distinguish the man of upright principle. The election was held in his room—he was present and watching with the most cat-like vigilance every vote and voter that appeared—and frequently taking a part in the disputes that arose. Who ever before heard of a candidate administering the oath himself to the challenged voter? And yet this appeared to be Major Holton's principal duty. What are the Judges of election for if not to attend to this particular duty?—And yet when a vote was challenged—and particularly whenever a whig vote was challenged—Maj. Holton was the man to administer the oath to the challenged voter—and himself a candidate.—Such conduct as this, is making a perfect farce of our elections. They were intended to be free, and to draw out an expression of the cool, clear and calm judgment of the people—but how can this be the case, when a candidate takes so active a part in the election as to plant himself immediately in front of the voter, that his presence may intimidate, and thus prevent a fair expression of the voter's contiments. We find no fault with a candidate for electioneering for himself, as much as may seem to him best—but we say, keep his hands off the poll books—let the proper officers, who were constituted by law, attend to swearing challenged voters—or else extend the same privilege to both candidates.

In addition to the fact, that the main portion of the locofoco vote, was located in the second ward—Major Holton had made certain promises in relation to improving Jersey Street, which he will find it difficult to perform. In consequence of these promises several whigs were prevailed upon to give him their votes. Now let him fulfil his promises if he dare. Let us now see whether the city is to be burthened with a heavy expense to enable Holton to fulfil his pledges made before election. While we regret exceedingly that these whigs were brought to throw away their votes on this man, it may teach them a lesson when they discover the emptiness of his promises, which they will not soon forget. One of the prominent locofoco Aldermen, was busy during the day boasting that if Holton was elected they (the board) would show the whigs no quarter for the future, &c.

We believe if the second ward poll was purged of illegal votes, that Mr. Jansen would be the Alderman. Two illegal votes to our own knowledge were cast in that ward—one a man by the name of Rogers, who lives in Pike county—and another, who resides in the 1st ward.—We have heard of others, and if called upon will specify them. We submit, under the circumstances, if here is not proper ground for contesting the election.

Finally, the result is most gratifying. It has turned out exactly as we expected. We believed if all the votes of our citizens were polled—the whigs would have a triumphant majority in the city—and the result on Monday last shows that the belief was well founded. The Whigs individually and collectively, deserve great credit for their industry, vigilance and perseverence, on this occasion—we never saw them more united and determined to carry an election. The cause of our country is safe in the hands of such men, and under their fostering care, our political struggles, in a National view, must have a happy termination.

HAVE YOU HEARD FROM CONNECTICUT.

ANOTHER WHIG TRIUMPH!!!

Connecticut has covered herself with glory. Sufficient returns have come to hand to show that the Whigs have carried majorities of both both branches of the State Legislature, and have thus secured the election of TWO WHIG UNITED STATES SENATORS.—There is reason to believe that the Whig candidate for Governor, Mr. Baldwin, is elected by the people, but if this should not be the case, his election by the Legislature is rendered certain. We give below a brief summary of the news, as given in the New York Tribune:

Vote for Governor.

	Whig.	Loco	Abo.
Hartford county,	5983	5316	250
New London county,	2381	2336	167

Total, exclusive Windham,	25,320	23,652	1,245

Baldwin over Cleveland, 1,676

Baldwin over Cleveland and scattering, 431

Windham county may have given Cleveland 100, but we think not; but there will be an abolition vote against a choice. It is probable, however, that Baldwin is chosen Governor by the people; at any rate he cannot have less than 1,000 over Cleveland, and will certainly be chosen by the Legislature if he is not by the people.

Legislature—Nearly Full.

	Senate.		House.		No
Counties.	Whig.	Loco.	Whig.	Loco.	choice.

Total,	13	5	89	67

[The Senate consists of 21 members, all of whom are elected annually. The last Senate comprised 5 Whigs and 16 Locofocos. In the House there was a Loco majority of about 36, out of a total of 186. In 1842 the Democratic strength in the same body was about 2 to 1.]

HONOR TO CONNECTICUT.—The New York Tribune of the 3d inst., says:

"A National salute of twenty-six guns (which would have been a hundred if there had been time to make the cartriges) was fired in the Park last evening in honor of the gallant conduct of the "Land of steady habits." The peal of Whig triumph rung out loudly in the clear air of the beautiful evening, and woke a thrill in many a generous heart."

A great and glorious impromptu Whig gathering followed at National Hall.—Shouts of rejoicing to the glorious land of the Ellsworths, Shermans, Wolcotts, Huntingtons!

The excitement throughout the State was tremendous, and the vote the heaviest ever cast, being 3000 more than that of Harrison and Van Buren in 1840.

☞ Gen. Heman A. Moore, a member of Congress from the Columbus, Ohio, district, died in that city on the 3d inst.

☞ McDaniel, on trial in St. Louis, for the murder of Chavis, the Santa Fe trader, has been convicted.

☞ It seems from the Rushville Whig, that a very interesting political discussion was had at the late Schuyler court. Col. Richardson, the Van Buren elector for this district, was most genteely combed down on this occasion by our friend JONAS of Columbus. JONAS is an apt hand in using the curry-comb, and woe unto the locofoco wight who invites the operation.

☞ The abolitionists of Ohio, have recently written a letter to CASSIUS M. CLAY, of Kentucky, inquiring of him for whom he should vote in the coming Presidential election. His reply will be given in our next. Wonder if the Chicago abolition paper will publish this reply?

☞ The Memphis Enquirer publishes a letter from Washington, evidently written by one who is perfectly familiar with the case in which Mrs. Gaines is plaintiff, and who states positively, that the recent decision of the Supreme Court is entirely favorable to the lady, and that the acquisition of the property she claims, or, at the worst, all but one tenth of it, within the next year, is now a matter of certainty. And yet the silly pretender of the Herald, in his profound knowledge of the law, will have it, that the decision is adverse to the claims of the lady.

☞ Mr. Joseph Jones, who was shot in the St. Louis election riot, died on the 5th inst.

☞ The Clerk of the steamer Victress, has our thanks for a late St. Louis Republican.

☞ We invite the attention of the public to the advertisement in this paper from Griffith & Brother, St. Louis. They have a complete and large stock of the articles enumerated on hand, and up-country dealers could not do better than give them a call when they visit St. Louis.

☞ THE CLAY CLUB will meet at the Court House on Thursday evening next, the 18th inst. Addresses may be expected from some of our best speakers. All parties are invited to be present—and the invitation is particularly extended to the people from the country. April 17.

☞ For an excellent glass of Soda Water, call at Dr. Bartlett's Drug Store. So all say who have visited the place.

☞ Our readers are not compelled to read that very interesting tax list on the preceding page. We will make it up here after.

☞ At a special election in Chicago for mayor of the City, recently Mr. A. S. Sherman, the Whig candidate, was elected over Garrett, the locofoco incumbent by a large majority. There appears to be a turning of the tables on the Locofocos in many of our Western cities this spring.—Galena, elected a Whig instead of a Locofoco to the office of mayor.—So did Saint Louis—so did Chicago—and Quincy did the same thing on Monday last. November is approaching!

TEMPERANCE IN ST. LOUIS.—A correspondent of the St. Louis New Era, draws a lamentable state of things in that city. He says:

"There never was a time when the enemies of Temperance assumed a more alarming front than now, or when its friends were more cowardly. Grog-shops and tipling houses are assuming their old prominence, and are again becoming "respectable." They are frequented by young men who, two years ago, would have been ashamed to be seen there. Even men of family, who have sons old enough to follow their example, are guilty of the same practice. At hotels, the quantity of wine drank is double what it was and gentlemen are sometimes not ashamed to rise from the table half intoxicated.—Meanwhile the public is almost silent. The churches are so busy in making converts that they seem to forget that without temperance there is no religion. The Washingtonian Society is quite dead, and many of its members are false to their pledge. Not a few of the 'reformed' have gone back to the mire and dirt from which they were taken; and, worse than all, new victims are preparing to add themselves to the drunkards' army. I could name several such, who are now useful and respectable citizens, but whose days of usefulness are numbered. What will be the result? Let the Fifth Ward mob answer. The lukewarm friends of Temperance are responsible for that mob. If they had done their duty in the last twelve months, it would not occurred. I call upon temperance men, clergy and laity, to wake up! But it will need a louder voice than mine to awaken them!

Commodore KENNEDY, of the U. States navy, died at Norfolk, on the 20th ult. aged 65 years. At the time of his death he was in command of the ship of the line Pennsylvania.

TEXAS.—The editor of the N. York Tribune says, that any intimation that Messrs. Crittenden, Morehead, &c., will vote for the annexation of Texas, is wholly unwarranted. That project cannot secure 25 votes in the Senate. "We happen to know that the Michigan Senators are inexorably opposed to Annexation."

NOTICE.—Will be offered at public sale on the seventeenth day of May next, at the Court House door in Quincy, the school section (no. 16) in township one north, range nine west, in forty acre lots, sale to commence at one o'clock, p. m. Terms as prescribed by the school law of the state.

PHILADELPHIA Package Sales of Boots and Shoes,

Every Tuesday Morning at 10 o'clock;

By G. W. Lord.

A CARD.—A combination having been formed by a portion of the Dealers in Boots and Shoes of this city with the avowed object of suppressing the sale of these goods by Auction, it seems proper for the subscriber (who has held these sales for the past eighteen months,) to state that notwithstanding this combination, the sales will not be stopped, but on the contrary, as he will now rely more than ever on the patronage of the Country merchants, the sales will be held every Tuesday morning, at the Auction Store, 208 Market street, and his arrangements with Manufacturers, both of this city and all New England, are such as to insure him a constant and full supply of every description of goods,

The mere fact of so great an effort being made to put down these sales, is the best evidence the country merchants can have, that it is for his interest to sustain them.

LOOK AT THIS—$500 Premium.

THE Subscriber has invented a Machine, after twelve months incessant labor, for breaking and cleaning Hemp, which he now offers to the public. He also offers the above premium to any person or persons who will produce a machine that will surpass his in any manner whatever, unless made on the same principle The machine is portable, being constructed on rollers so that it can easily be moved and stationed in any part of a field or barn. Hemp dressed by this machine has been examined by critical judges and pronounced far superior to that dressed by hand—Three men and two boys with said machine, which is propelled by three horses only, can dress ready for market, from ten to fifteen hundred pounds per day. Any person wishing to see said machine can do so by calling at his residence in Marcelline, Adams county, Illinois, or at St. Louis, where he will exhibit both model and original.

ND PUFF!

BERNARD & PORTER, Saddle, Harness and Trunk Manufacturers,

HAVE opened the above business in all its branches, on the North East Corner of the Public Square, Quincy, Ill.

We would say to our friends and the public generally, that we are determined to work as good stock, do as good work, and sell as cheap as any shop in the city. As proof of this we only ask you to call and examine for yourselves. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Country Produce will be taken at the highest market price in exchange for our work.

J. C. BERNARD.

CABINET WARE-ROOM!!

THE undersigned respectfully informs the citizens of Quincy and the surrounding country, that he still continues the Cabinet Business, in all its various branches, at his shop, on Main Street, 2d door east of the Presbyterian church. He is prepared to manufacture to order, sofas, spring seat rocking chairs, (of a superior quality) Grecian chairs, &c., at prices as low as they can be manufactured in St. Louis. He also manufactures the more common articles in the cabinet line, such as bureaus, sideboards, tables, stands, &c. &c., in as good and substantial style, and at as low prices as can be afforded at any other shop in the country. He has on hand, several mahogany and low priced bureaus, mahogany card tables, curled black walnut centre tables, spring seat rocking chairs, curled maple; stands of all descriptions, breakfast and dining tables, bedsteads, &c. &c. Confident that he can recommend his work and that his prices are in accordance with the times, he invites purchasers to call and examine, previous to purchasing elsewhere.

F. W. JANSEN.

N. B. The subscriber will pay the highest market price, for cherry, black walnut, and all kinds of lumber suitable for his business.

CABINET WARE ROOM.

J. S. FUNK,

AT the old stand, South east corner public square, has on hand, and is prepared to sell at the lowest prices, the largest and best assortment of cabinet furniture, ever offered in Quincy.

He has on hand, and is prepared to manufacture to order, mahogany and black walnut spring seat sofas, rocking chairs, and Grecian ch'rs, finished with stock selected expressly for the Quincy market, and in the latest eastern fashion. He keeps constantly on hand hand secretaries, sideboards, centre tables, card tables, dining, breakfast, and dressing tables, bureaus, bedsteads, of every description, work-stands, washstands, and every other article of cabinet furniture, made of either mahogany, black walnut, curled maple or cherry, and finished in a style to suit purchasers.

As the variety of the subscriber's stock on hand, the quality and finish of his work, and his prices for the same, cannot fail to suit purchasers, they are respectfully requested to give him a call before purchasing elsewhere.

ROGERS & KARNES

THE SICK-HEADACHE, Either Nervous or Billious.

☞ An attentive perusal of the following will, it is believed, fully repay all classes of readers:—Headache! This disease is one from which arises more misery to the human family than is generally supposed; not being directly fatal it is often neglected, or persons resort so much to the use of purgatives and other medicines, as to impair their general health, and often induce fatal disease. This article, Dr. Spohn's Headache Remedy, from Comstock & Co., now offered, seems to have overcome these difficulties. While its effects are most powerful and immediate in curing an attack or keeping it off, it is so perfectly mild and innocent as to be used for infants with the greatest effect and safety. This has now been tested by so many of the highest members of this community, as to require no further proof.

If taken a few times in as many hours, when there are indications of an approaching attack, it is sure in all cases to prevent the attack. If used for a few weeks, the premonitory symptoms gradually subside, until they wholly disappear, and never, without some great external or predisposing cause, return if the person neglects to use it till the headache commences, it sometimes cures instantly, but at others the turns will have their course for two or three times, and then wholly disappear.

Rheumatism, Gout, Contracted Cords and Muscles, &c., are prevalent and common diseases. The practitioner of greatest skill, if honest, generally shrinks in despair at the prospect of governing and eradicating these diseases. His remedies are generally palliative, and the patient feels happy at any relief from his torments. If his family doctor gives him any hope of a cure, it is at the end of a long course of medicine that is to act upon the system, or at the expense of drawing from the arm his life's blood until, if cured, which is by such means next to impossible, he has not enough of "life left to be worth living for." How important then, that a remedy to check, control, and eradicate Rheumatism and Gout, to extend and strengthen shrivelled and knotty cords and muscles, till nature and health again has sway and control. Such, you may rely, is the effect of the Nerve and Bone Liniment and Indian Vegetable Elixer, sold by Comstock & Co., and true only when they bare their fac-simile signature on them. How happy the discovery that the Elixer Drops taken internally operate specifically, and directly upon the affected parts, while the Liniment rubbed on externally removes all soreness and pain, and renders the patient at once comfortable and happy

Human Hair.

Mr. Lewis Millard, of Butternuts, Otsego county, had lost his hair, and had it fully restored by two bottles of the Balm. In fact, the cures are so numerous, that it is quite out of the question to refer to one in a hundred of those who have experienced the like effects.

Who would go Bald?

Col. Seaver, Postmaster at Batavia, is knowing to the fact, that Dr. Bingham, Genesee county, aged over 70, and for more than seventeen years very bald, has had his hair fully restored by the use of one bottle of the Balm of Columbia, from Comstock & Co.

Ann Ellis, living in the service of H. Howard, Esq., 516 Broadway, has had her hair fully restored, after her head had been bald for a long time.

What is there that adds more to the personal appearance and comfort of mankind, than a good head of hair? In youth it is indispensable to "good looks," and in age it is certainly necessary for comfort; and it is surely as proper to supply the loss of any of nature's gifts, as those that fashion and custom have forced upon us. But will you for lost hair substitute a wig? No! Wearing a wig impairs the health, breeds humors, and produces numberless evils, all of which can be avoided by the use of 'Oldridge's Balm of Columbia,' from 21 Cortland street which fully restores the hair, whether it is lost by sickness or by age Never buy without the name of Comstock & Co. on the wrapper—all others are counterfeit.

Comstock's Sarsaparilla.

The reason there are some people foolish enough to believe that we cannot afford to make as good an article of Sarsaparilla Extract, and sell it for 50 cents, per bottle or $4 per dozen, as all others that sell for just double the money. The simple fact is this, and all will now be convinced. While five hundred dollars is squandered by others in column or two column advertisements, we do not spend five. Therefore we do not make the public pay but half as much for as good or better an article than any one else, yet make as much if not more profit than they. The real cost in making the article is probably more than theirs, as we use nothing but the best Sarsaparilla Root And we are fully convinced that we will sell three bottles, to one of the dollar priced bottles, when the public know what we charge for it, as its virtues are such as not to require one or two columns to sustain its reputation.

Ask, inquire--ask those who know.

Those only who know by trial or immediate observation, can form any idea of the effects, of the perfect relief, of the almost charm like cures effected in cases of the PILES, RHEUMATISM, all SWELLINGS, and all external PAINS, no matter how severe, by the use of Hay's Liniment. Find one who has used it that will not laud it above all things ever used, and you will find—what cannot be found.

For the relief of suffering human beings who may be afflicted, I beg you to ask—as those who know. More than one hundred gentlemen and officers of the highest standing, whose names are a host, know of cases unconquerable by any other remedies or physicians; though tried for many years, that have been cured by the use of the genuine HAY'S LINIMENT. Thousands of other persons know similar cures. We appeal to their sense of justice—their humane feelings.

It is but a duty you owe to your suffering fellow beings to let this great remedy be known Speak of it then to all your friends. This will save much pain where the newspapers are not read, or where readers are incredulous, because so many worthless articles are advertised for the same purpose. To buyers we say, if all who have used it do not say it is beyond all praise, do not take it. The proprietor would not allow this article to be paid for unless it cured, when all the directions were fully followed Will any one suffering refuse now to try it? If he does, he ought to be pitied more for his obstinacy than his suffering.

Mr. Hays would never have consented to offer this article, were he not compelled by his sense of moral—of religious duty—to do all in his power for the victims of distress and misery For this purpose he would sooner devote a fortune, than secure a dollar for any worthless article.

THE PILES AND ALL SORES.—Hay's Liniment is known to thousands, as a most extraordinary remedy for these afflictions. It is impossible to tell in a newspaper, in such a manner as to obtain full credence, the effects and benefits of this article, so general is the practice of advertisers of extolling articles of no merit Such personal references will be given, as to bring conviction to the minds of the most unbelieving. Will sufferers only ask among their friends, if they have not heard of or known its effects; and if they do not hear it more warmly praised than any other salve, let them not get it. All fancy or exaggeration is positively excluded from these statements, and it is determined to say nothing of its merits, but what could be clearly proved by a host of witnesses, in any court of justice. Will you look at the thing and the proofs at 21 Courtland Street, where it may be had.—[N. Y. Com. Adv.

DR. MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND PHŒNIX BITTERS.

THE speedy, successful and permanent cure of almost every species of disease by Dr. Moffat's Vegetable Life Medicines, has long since won for them an extent of patronage and public favor totally unexampled.

Their established reputation is the legitimate result of long trial and satisfactory experience and cannot in any manner be attributed to newspaper puffs, nor to any thing that may have been fondly alleged in their favor. They are purely a vegetable preparation, entirely free from calomel, arsenic and every other mineral, and may be prescribed in all cases with perfect safety. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, but at the same time thorough; acting rapidly upon the secretions, carrying off all acrimonious humors; assimilating with and purifying the blood, and infusing new life and vigor into the system by restoring the insensible perspiration and the equalization of the circulation so essential to sound, cheerful and elastic health.

No inconvenience of any sort attends their administration, nor is any change or restriction in diet or relaxation from daily business or pleasure required. It is only necessary to be particular in taking them according to the directions, and the patient will assuredly be found to be not only cured of disease, but in a stronger and better state of health than was previously experienced. In proof of their extraordinary efficacy the proprietor would refer to the very numerous certificates voluntarily given to the public by individuals of every station in society who have derived permanent cures from their exclusive use. They embrace nearly every form of disease; are clear, direct and explicit in description, are voluntarily given in every case by the person cured, who state their names and places of residence, and are consequently of indisputable and conclusive authority. The invalid on perusing them will probably find some case exactly similar to his own. They also establish the fact that these excellent and truly useful medicines have been fully tested, sanctioned and prescribed by many respectable and skilful members of the medical faculty, whose discernment and magnanimity rendered them superior to the paltry and pernicious prejudices of the "Little ones" of the profession, and whose moral courage and philanthropy induced them to make public for the benefit of their fellow-men, the happy results that invariably attended the faithful use of Moffat's Life medicines.

The certificates are published in the Good Samaritan, a newspaper issued monthly in the city of New York, copies of which may be seen by calling upon the Agents or the proprietor, who are to be found in every city and town of importance in the Union.

Druggists, country merchants, &c. in the States of Indiana and Illinois, Missouri and Michigan and the Territories of Iowa and Wisconsin, who desire the appointment of agent, and a supply of the medicines, can address (postage paid) E. M. M. CLARK, Esq.,

JACKSONVILLE, ILLINOIS,

Attorney and Travelling Agent of the proprietor for all the northwestern States and Territories, who is fully empowered to settle the accounts of agents and collect and receive all monies due and owing by them; to revoke the appointment of delinquent agents and to appoint agents and to furnish them with the medicines, of which he has a supply at convenient points on the Missouri, Mississippi and Illinois rivers.

The agents will receive from him an order for the medicines on the nearest place of deposit, and will be allowed the expense of transportation and the liberal commission of 25 per cent on sales.

SHERMAN'S

MEDICATED LOZENGES.

THESE celebrated Lozenges are now offered to the citizens of Quincy, and the West, as the best preparations (for the cure of the various diseases for which they are recommended) ever offered to the public. The proprietor, Dr. Sherman, is a regular graduate of Medicine, a member of the medical Society of the city and county of New York, and these Lozenges are prepared from medical prescriptions which have been approved by the most celebrated physicians in that city; in addition to which they are prepared in so pleasant a manner that children eat them with avidity and cry for more. They consist of

COUGH LOZENGES,

Which are the safest and most effectual remedy for—Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Whooping Cough, Asthma, &c. ever offered to the public. They operate by promoting expectoration, allaying the irritation of coughing, and removing the cause of the disease.

WORM LOZENGES,

The only infallible Worm Medicine ever discovered. In over 40,000 cases they have never been known to fail. Many diseases arise from worms and occasion long and intense suffering and even death, without their ever having been suspected; grown persons are very often affected with them, and are doctored for various complaints, without any benefit; when one dose of these Lozenges would cure them.

CAMPHOR LOZENGES,

For nervous or sick head ache, palpitations of the heart, lassitude and nervous affections generally. Persons travelling or attending large parties, will find the Lozenges really reviving, and imparting the buoyancy of youth—used after dissipation, they will restore the tone of the system generally, and remove all the unpleasant symptoms arising from too free living.

CATHARTIC LOZENGES,

The best cathartic medicine for removing bile from the system and preventing attacks of the bilious and intermittent fever of this section of country.

FEVER AND AGUE LOZENGES,

These Lozenges have been tested by a celebrated physician in a practice of twenty years, and have never been known to fail in removing the distressing disease. In addition to which, if the directions be followed, the disease will not return.

Sherman's Poor Man's Plaster.

This Plaster, of which over 1,000,000 are sold yearly, is believed to be the best plaster for rheumatism, lumbago, pain in the back, side, breast or any other part of the body, ever prepared, and its price (only 12½ cents) brings it within the reach of every person in the community.

HAMILTON'S

VEGETABLE BALSAM.

A certain Cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Whooping-Cough, Colds, Coughs, Influenza, and all diseases of the Lungs, Liver, and Kidneys.

(Certificate from the Rev J. Stamper)

I certify that I have used Hamilton's Vegetable Balsam in my family, and find it to be one of the best and safest medicines I have ever known for Coughs and Sore Throat.

Sept. 5, 1843. J. STAMPER

Springfield, Ills. March 15, 1843.

This is to certify, that I was severely afflicted during the last fall and winter with the Liver Complaint, accompanied with a severe Cough, so bad that I had not been able to lie on my right side in bed for more than two months. In December I commenced the use of Hamilton's Vegetable Balsam, and to my great astonishment and satisfaction, in 48 hours I was free from pain in my side, and my cough gradually decreased by the use of it, and I now consider myself entirely cured, and would heartily recommend it to all similarly deceased CHAS G. SAUNDERS.

Consumption.

About seven years ago I took a very bad cold, it settled on my breast, which became very sore, accompanied with a severe cough. I used various kinds of medicines from the best physicians for five years—I continued to grow worse until I was pronounced by the physicians, to have the Consumption. In the year 1841, I gave up work entirely, expecting never to be able to do another day's work. Learning of Dr Hamilton's Vegetable Balsam, as a last effort to save myself from the grave, I was induced to try it, and to my astonishment, in using six ounces I find myself perfectly cured—and can safely say that my health is better than it ever was. ☞ I would also state that in April, 1842, my wife—from the effects of the measles—had a very bad cough and sore breast for many weeks, and using two ounces of the Balsam she was entirely cured.
